Open Text(TM) have announced that it is wholly committed to meeting MoReq2's requirements and applauds the efforts that have gone into delivering such a robust set of standards.

MoReq2 is a giant step forward in unifying records management software standards and practices across Europe. It will give governments and corporations a single approach to managing their most important records, which can be a daunting task for large organisations struggling with ever increasing stores of electronic information. For European corporations operating in multiple European countries, MoReq2 is particularly valuable because it will provide a single set of rules to follow for all of Europe.
